

READ BACK OVER PHILEMON

THE THREE BIG TAKEAWAYS FROM THIS WEEK'S MESSAGE

- What's the loving thing to do?
- How we see people determines our ability to love people.
- When we see others as "less than", we devalue them.

DISCUSSION QUESTIONS

1. Why is doing the loving thing sometimes so hard to do? What are factors, personal or external, that keep us from doing the loving thing at times?
2. Why do we tend to look down on some, up to others, and as equal with others? For those we've looked down on, why is that and how does the Gospel balance out the way we see them?
3. In what ways have you seen, or even experienced, the progression of people being seen as less than, devalued, and ultimately dehumanized?
4. How were you personally encouraged or convicted about what the letter of Philemon has to say regarding the way we see others?
